Are You Stocked Up for the School Year?

As we have all prepared for the hustle and grind of a new school year, we gather supplies. New clothes, new dance and sports equipment, healthy snacks and lunch goodies, the latest haircuts and cool shoes... But what about the supplies for the inside? As you prepare for all the other things, we have a prime opportunity to visit about what we will see, hear, and encounter as students, parents, teachers, and mentors. Here are some ideas for executing a kinder, sweeter year:

- Give a genuine compliment to someone each day
- Make a jar of some favorites for a desk at work, or for a teacher, or your own kids on the counter at home.
- Add a sweet note to a lunch or even two, so your child or spouse has one to share.
- Busy mom tip: Dove chocolates have great messages on the wrapper and can be just the boost someone needs to read that day!
- Be practical! Hold a door, clear someone’s plate, run an errand, pay for a stranger’s coffee, fill in for a teacher’s lunch duty.

As Spencer Kimball said, “God does notice us, and He watches over us. But it is usually through another person that He meets our needs.”

Don’t Forget!
